K Visits Berlin Wall; Offers To See Brandt

BERLIN (AP) — Premier Khrushchev visited the Berlin wall Thursday and then invited Mayor Will Brandt of West Berlin to come talk things over with him.

Brandt reluctantly rejected the bid, blaming pressure from the Berlin section of Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's party, the Christian Democrats.

The Communists have been arguing that West Berlin's government and Senate should deal with them directly on their mutual problems without reference to the Bonn government. Thus Khrushchev's motive in inviting Brandt to East Berlin seemed clear.

But the Christian Democrats told the West Berlin mayor that if he accepted they no longer would participate in the city's coalition government. This would have caused political confusion in advance of next month's West Berlin election. Brandt is a member of the Social Democrat party.

Urge Quick Vote On Filibustering

WASHINGTON (AP) — Amidst signs of impatience, senators seeking to make it easier to shut off filibusters Thursday urged a quick vote to decide the issue one way or the other.

"I'm not one for prolonging the agony," said Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., calling for a win or lose nose-count right away.

Another of those supporting the proposed rules overhaul, Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., urged the Senate to get to the business of deciding the question this year. He said Senate battles over rules at the start of each Congress have followed the same pattern so often the public might regard it as "almost like a ritual."

Like the old-fashioned dance, he said, the same refrain is heard with the participants going through the same steps and no important change resulting. This is not "a parliamentary game," he said.

The Senate argued its way through the third straight day on a preliminary motion. It centered on whether to take up a motion by Sen. Clinton P. Anderson, D-N.M., to permit filibusters to be shut off by a three-fifths margin of senators voting rather than the present two-thirds.

Interspersed in the oratory over the virtues and vices of filibusters was a years-old wrangle over whether each new Senate has to adopt its own rules or inherits the rules of the previous Senate. Humphrey, who is assistant majority leader, plans — if Anderson's proposal is taken up — to offer a substitute plan to let debate be limited by a 51-vote majority of the 100 senators.

Kennedy, Fanfani Reach Agreement

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy won Italy's cautious support Thursday for a NATO nuclear force, and its pledge to back Britain's effort to join the Common Market.

These were the outstanding points of a communique issued jointly by Kennedy and Amintore Fanfani, Italy's prime minister, after two days of talks.

The talks began shortly after French President Charles de Gaulle turned down Kennedy's in-itation to join the Nassau pact — an agreement between Kennedy and Britain's Prime Minister Harold Macmillan to provide NATO with a multinational nuclear force.

De Gaulle made it clear at the same time that he opposes Britain's early entry into the European Common Market.

The Kennedy-Fanfani meeting provided the President with an important ally in his NATO family differences with the French leader, some diplomatic observers noted.

They felt also that by coming out clearly on Kennedy's side, Fanfani made a decisive step toward revitalizing his country's role in the Atlantic community and in isolating De Gaulle.

Kennedy and his guest, the communique said, agreed that increased invigoration of Europe — which means getting Britain and perhaps other Western nations into the Common Market — would bring "greater solidarity and prosperity" to Europe.

Mrs. Anna Shaw, Dead At 94

MRS. ANNA J. S. Shaw, 94, of 215 Washington St., East Stroudsburg, died at 9:45 p.m. yesterday in the Cherry Valley Nursing Home. She had been in failing health a year and seriously ill three months.

The widow of Frank Shaw, she was born in Bartonville, the daughter of Samuel and Lydia Hartman Sprague.

She was a school teacher in the East Stroudsburg system for 35 years prior to her retirement in 1940. She also taught in the schools of Scotrun, Tannersville and Mountaintop for 10 years before going to East Stroudsburg.

She was a graduate of East Stroudsburg Normal School and the Fairview Academy, Broadheadville. Mrs. Shaw had lived in East Stroudsburg most of her life and was the oldest living member of Grace Lutheran Church and a charter member of the Ladies Aid of the church. She taught Sunday School in the church for many years.

Surviving are several nieces and nephews.

Funeral services will be at 2 p.m. Sunday in the Lutheran Funeral Home. Rev. William F. Wunder will officiate and burial will be in Stroudsburg Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home Saturday from 7 to 9 p.m.

Shortway Bids Asked For Feb. 21

HARRISBURG (AP)—The state Highways Department called Thursday for bids Feb. 21 on nine projects including construction of a Columbia County link of the Keystone Shortway.

The projects include: Columbia — Keystone Shortway, (I-80), Scott, North Centre and South Centre Twp., between Bloomsburg and Lime Ridge, 5.27 miles, two 24-foot lanes of concrete pavement separated by a 60-foot earth median, and seven bridges, Interstate.

Columbia — Routes 242 and 44, Catawissa Twp., between Catawissa and Bloomsburg, 0.70 of a mile, bituminous pavement 22 feet wide and extension of reinforced concrete arch.

Friends may call at the funeral home Saturday from 7 to 9 p.m.

Tshombe Back In Elisabethville Awaiting UN Talks

ELISABETHVILLE, Katanga — (AP)—President Moise Tshombe met Thursday night with his old antagonists—U.N. civil and military officials—in what may be a final act of capitulation ending his secession.

Arriving in this capital of Katanga, he said he was here to arrange for the peaceful entry of U.N. forces into Kolwezi, his last stronghold in the province he had fought to keep independent of central Congo rule.

All orders to blow up vital installations in Kolwezi have been suspended, he declared. His threat to destroy the copper, cobalt and power facilities had held back U.N. forces from marching on that vital mineral center 150 miles northwest of Elisabethville.

Troops Moving In
U.N. sources in New York said U.N. units already are moving toward the Tshombe River, about 20 miles from Kolwezi, in expectation of a go-ahead. They were expected to halt at the river until arrangements for their peaceful entry have been completed.

These informants said U.N. officials expect Kolwezi to be in U.N. hands by Friday—or Saturday at the latest. They said Tshombe probably would be flown to Kolwezi by U.N. planes to make sure there is no hitch in the takeover.

Since he announced Tuesday his willingness to bow to the U.N. plan for Congo unity, Tshombe had remained in Kolwezi. He flew from Kolwezi to nearby Kipushi, then drove to Elisabethville.

Tshombe drove to the presidential palace, from which he fled

Jan. 12, apparently in fear of arrest by central government officials who were arriving in Elisabethville to take over. Since his Tuesday declaration, he has been promised amnesty by the central government.

Mission Clarified

The Katangan leader told reporters he was not in Elisabethville to negotiate, but to work out details for the entry of U.N. forces into Kolwezi. He said he would remain in Elisabethville long enough to see that his orders are obeyed, giving U.N. forces free movement throughout Katanga.

U.N. officials said the next step after the occupation of Kolwezi is put Secretary-General U. Thant's plan for Congo unification into effect.

Thant's plan calls for Katanga to share equally with the central government in Leopoldville all the mineral revenues that have made this southeast Congo province rich. A new federal constitution would be adopted giving such provinces as Katanga considerable self-rule.

Reaction On Huge National Budget Divided Among Capitol Legislators

Transport Strike Is Brighter

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Federal Mediator William Rose said Thursday night the Philadelphia Transportation Co. and the Transport Workers Union were considering a proposal "exclusively new in the transit industry" to end a three-day transit strike which has deprived half a million riders of buses, trolleys and subway and elevated trains.

Rose did not disclose any details.

He said the proposal was made by a three-man panel.

It was disclosed after city councilmen offered to mediate the dispute and suggested a solution in the no-layoff provision, which has been the principal stumbling block to negotiations.

The suggested solution included a provision that layoffs be restricted to not more than 1.5 per cent of the work force in a single year, with those laid off to receive up to 10 weeks' pay in a lump sum.

PTC President Robert H. Stier's reaction was, "I do not welcome intervention."

There was no immediate comment from the union.

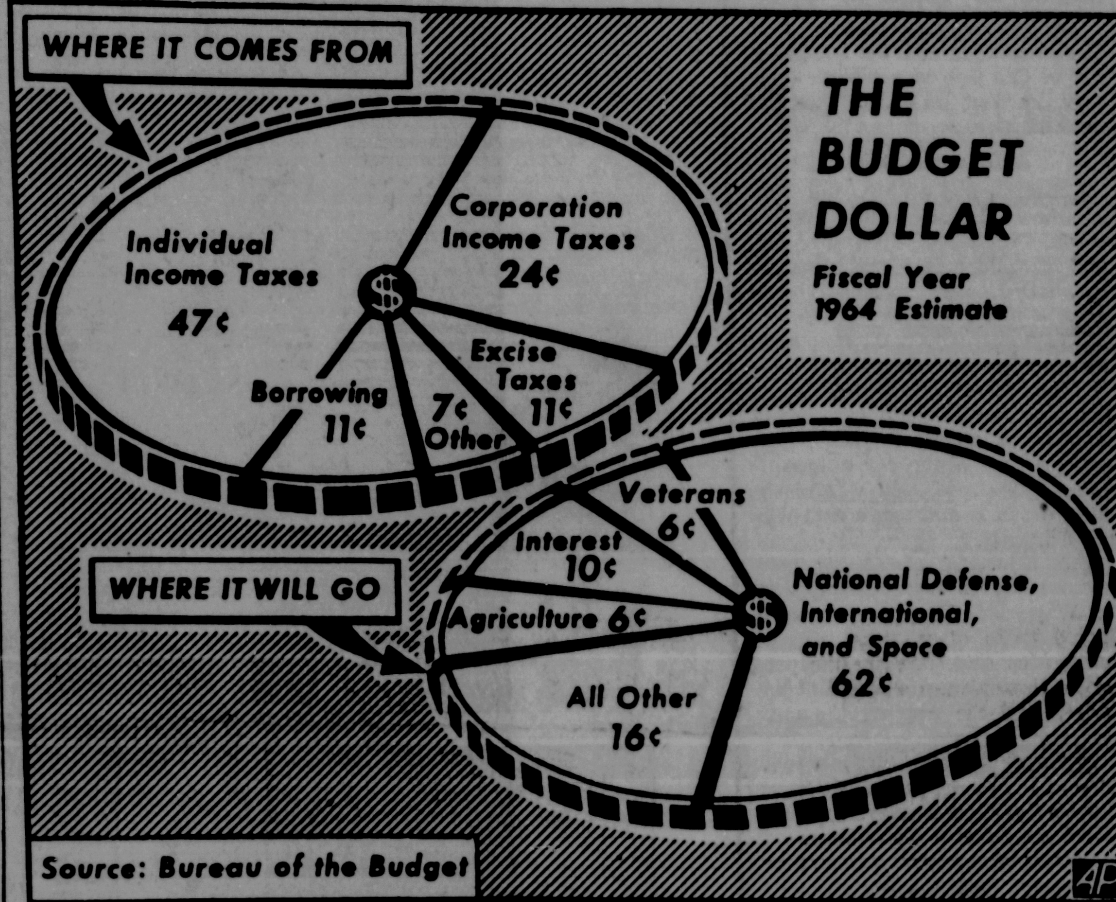

A brief joint session of the company and union was held earlier at the call of the mediators.

After the 35-minute meeting, Stier said he has not changed his position that the no-layoff clause be removed from any new contract.

William Rose, spokesman for a panel of three mediators, said the no-layoff clause deadlock must be resolved before the panel can move into other areas of the dispute.

Earlier, Stier said there can be no settlement of the strike by 5,600 operating and maintenance personnel until the company is guaranteed the fare increases it is now seeking before the Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission.

Stier added that if the new union contract emerging from the settlement includes a fare increase, fare costs that are not offset by economies made possible by work rule changes, PTC will need still another fare increase in the spring.

Budget $250,000 For Tocks Island Project

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy recommended Thursday that Congress appropriate $21,277,000 to continue construction of the Kinzua, Pa., flood control dam in the 12-month period beginning July 1—about $3.5 million below the current year's appropriation.

If the President's request is approved by Congress, total appropriated funds for the huge project would be 61.7 per cent of those needed to complete the $109 million project.

Kennedy also made several other recommendations in his budget message affecting projects in Pennsylvania.

He recommended $250,000 for the multi-purpose impetus dam to be built at Tocks Island in the Upper Delaware River. The money would be for advance engineering and design of the proposed dam which would affect Pennsylvania, New Jersey, New York and Delaware.

(Rep. Francis E. Walter, representing the 15th Congressional District in which the Tocks Island project is located, personally appealed to President Kennedy to include the planning fund in the budget.)

Another $250,000 was recommended for advance engineering and design work on the proposed Beltzville Dam, and $2.2 million for ship anchorage construction in the Delaware River below Philadelphia. These projects are included in the long-range program to develop the resources of the Delaware River basin.

Kennedy asked for $10.8 million for further work on the flood control dam in the Shenango River near Sharpsville, Pa. The current year's appropriation is $7.6 million. If approved the latest request would bring to 67.5 per cent of the total $36 million needed to complete the dam.

The President recommended an appropriation of $6.8 million for the Curwensville, Pa., dam flood control project. This would be the largest appropriation to date for the project if Congress follows Kennedy's recommendation. Five million dollars was appropriated in the current year toward completion of the $21 million project.

The other recommendations for Pennsylvania: Maxwell Locks and dam, $5 million; Turtle Creek, $3,200,000; Dam 4 on the Monongahela River, $2,300,000; Connoquessing Creek, Butler, $750,000; and $488,000 for advance engineering and design work on a proposed dam at Blanchard.

Board Of Mediators Tackles Dock Strike

NEW YORK (AP) — A three-man presidential board embarked Thursday on the stormy sea of waterfront labor relations, seeking an end to a 26-day, multi-million-dollar East and Gulf Coast dock strike. It has five days to resolve issues that have defied solution for seven long months.

Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., as chairman, led the board into separate meetings with the striking AFL-CIO International Longshoremen's Association, and the New York Shipping Association.

"I am not going to discuss the issues until we have made substantive progress," he told newsmen. "I have always mediated and arbitrated on the basis that I occupy a quasi-judicial position."

"There never has been and is not now any labor dispute that cannot be settled with good faith bargaining."

Both Sides Talk

"Both sides talked to us in complete good faith. What we offer to the parties is their last opportunity to settle their disputes before the President reports to Congress."

President Kennedy appointed the board Wednesday after federal mediators gave up efforts to settle the strike. Its mission is to end the costly tieup of more than 550 ships in ports from Maine to Texas, and to get 60,000 striking longshoremen — plus more than 20,000 other idle maritime workers — back to their jobs. The strike already has cost the union and industry $30 million in losses.

Kennedy said the strike was "doing intolerable injury to the national welfare."

The board is empowered either to mediate an agreement, or recommend a settlement. If its findings are ignored, as Morse pointed out, Kennedy faces the necessity of taking the deadlock to Congress, with the possibility of resultant labor legislation to end the strike.

Tackles Deadlock

The board tackled a deadlock that has defied solution since last June 13, when the IILA opened contract talks with the shipping industry. With expiration of the old IILA contract, the union struck the docks Oct. 1. The walkout ended four days later when President Kennedy invoked the Taft-Hartley law.

The strike was resumed Dec. 23 when the Taft-Hartley law's 80-day cooling-off period expired. The IILA's current demand is for a 50-cent-an-hour contract per centage over two years, including 26 cents in wages. The shipping industry offered a 22-cent-an-hour package for two years. Dock wages have been averaging $3.02 an hour.

Reduction Of Taxes Also Under Fire

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy submitted to a grumbling Congress on Thursday a national budget that would rocket spending to a record peak approaching $100 billion.

The President wrapped together into a single package a vast $98,802,000,000 spending program and another request for big-scale tax revisions and reductions. He said this financial plan would permit "the efficient and frugal conduct of the public business," boost the economy, and lead in time to balanced budgets.

Various members of Congress, some of them with key roles in federal financial affairs, leaped forward with cries of alarm and dissent. These were tempered by expressions of approval only to a degree that left it certain that Kennedy's budget is slated for a rugged route through the halls of Congress.

Holds Line On Spending

The new budget is for the 1964 fiscal year starting next July 1. It holds the line on spending for domestic affairs. But it budgets with record outlays of cash for defense and a space program aimed at the moon and a planet or two.

Kennedy cautioned against false economy in these realms and said there is no way to buy security at cut rates.

The budget counts on revenues of only $96.9 billion clinging into the Treasury till this is $11,902,000,000 short of what it would take to keep government ledgers out of the red.

Kennedy insisted, though, that this huge deficit and others to come would be only temporary—that red ink would turn to black once his program of $13.5 billion in tax cuts, offset by $3.5 billion in tax charges, began to take hold and "release the brake on the economy."

Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon figured that on this basis a surplus is two or three years away.

The secretary told newsmen it is unreasonable to expect Congress to enact a tax law before next July 1. Thus the first tax relief, a drop in personal income tax rates, would come sometime this summer at the earliest.

The budget would soar to all sorts of records or near records.

In the first place it calls for nearly $4.5 billion more than the government is spending in this fiscal year, and it tops by almost $500 million the previous high of $38.3 billion in the war year of 1945.

The $4.4 for defense, up $2.7 billion from this year, is a record for peacetime. The $4.2 billion for space projects is a record nearly twice as big as last year's figure, although the space agency director called it an austerity budget.

Record Tax Cuts

And the tax cuts, should they ever come through, would be the biggest in all history, both in the total reduction of $13.5 billion and the net of $10 billion.

Kennedy sent the budget to Capitol Hill by messenger, along with a message hitting the high spots.

The Senate was squabbling over filibuster rules and didn't bother to listen to a reading of the message.

The House took care of getting the message into the official record. A clerk whizzed through it in 15 minutes. Fewer than a third of the 435 members were in their seats when he started. By the time he was through the tally had thinned to about 85—less than one member for every billion dollar.

Nobody got up on the House floor with a land word for the budget. And Rep. Clarence Cas-non, D-Mo., chairman of the Appropriations Committee through which all the funds flow, led an assault.

Cannon jumped on the size of the projected deficit and said at least half the items Kennedy wants are nonessential.

"Spending money we do not have for things we could get along without—that is what invariably unbalances our budgets," Cannon said.

Some Stronger Opposition

Off the Senate and House floors, some of the language was even stronger. Many Democrats were as loud as Republicans with criticism. There were plenty of comments that with a deficit of $11.9 billion in eight it was silly to talk of cutting taxes almost that much over three years.

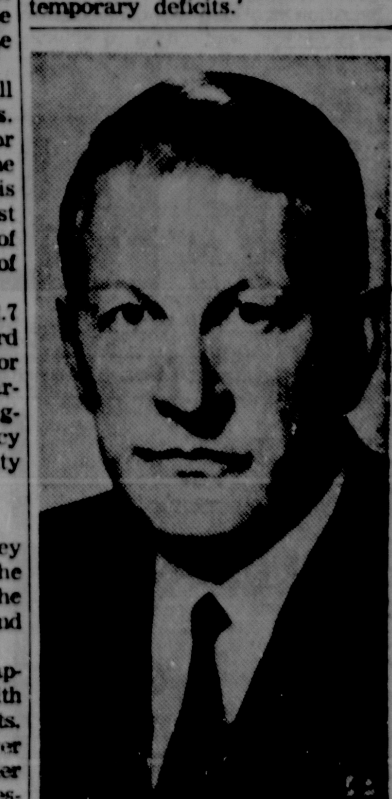

House Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., had something of a lone voice calling out that the budget is sound, progressive and responsible—"geared to the nation's actual and potential fiscal capacity." McCormack said that in the long haul "it promises new prosperity for our country."

The Republican House leader, Rep. Charles A. Halleck of Indiana, said the budget "makes a mockery of the administration's brave talk of letting the taxpayers keep more of his own money."

Across the Capitol, Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois termed the budget "incredible" because he said it proposed to cure deficits with a bigger deficit—"In other words, the best way to correct mistakes is to make bigger ones."

The chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., predicted the deficit would reach $14 billion rather than $11.9 under the Kennedy plans.

About the friendliest Republican comment came from Sen. Clifford P. Case of New Jersey. He said the size of the deficit is disturbing but went along with Kennedy's reasoning and said that, "If we are to reduce taxes, we must be prepared for some temporary deficits."

$1,500 Damages Awarded Pen Argyl Man By Jury

PEN ARGYL — A Northampton County Civil Court Jury Wednesday awarded $1,500 to James Rodney, Pen Argyl R. D. 1, for damages that resulted from an auto accident more than two years ago.

The judgment was against Beulah Reid, 124 S. Union St., Easton.

Rodney had started a civil action against the woman as a result of an accident at Seventh and Ferry streets Nov. 12, 1960.

Rodney said the Reid auto failed to halt for a stop sign and struck his motorcycle as he was driving through the intersection. Rodney was injured in the accident.

Vote Due On Return To Mine

UNIONTOWN, Pa. (AP)—Some 1,000 members of United Mine Workers Local 6321 have been summoned to vote Saturday in nearby Macon on whether to return to work in the U.S. Steel Corp.'s Robena coal mines. An explosion killed 37 men last Dec. 6 in Robena No. 3.

Carl Shotts, financial secretary of the local, announced the meeting Thursday.

The men have been off the job since the explosion, having ignored two company back-to-work calls. Spokesmen for the miners have said the men would not return until the cause of the blast were found and guarantees were given against another fatal blast.

A public hearing into the explosion by the state department of mines ended Tuesday. A final report is still pending.

Disarmament Talks Delayed

GENEVA (AP)—The 17-nation disarmament conference has been postponed a second time, diplomatic informants reported yesterday.

The talks had originally been scheduled to resume Jan. 15, but were then put off to Feb. 12 following a request by Washington which is continuing the discussions with Soviet representatives.

Diplomatic sources said the resumption has now been put off a second time until the end of February at the request of U.N. Secretary-General U Thant. That will be after the Geneva U.N. conference on the application of science in economic development of needy nations.

2 Held In Bangor Youth's Death Petition For Hearing

WILTON Edwards, 39, and his 19-year-old nephew, Robert Edwards, both of Baxley, RD 1, Ga., have petitioned the Appling County Court (Georgia) for a habeas corpus hearing. The men contend that they were "steamrolled" into jail through the use of "unfair tactics" by authorities.

The men are charged with the murder of Nicholas Cascario, 19, of Bangor, RD 3, on Dec. 28, 1962.

In their petition to Circuit Judge Ben Hodges, of Waycross, Ga., the two men cited a number of "unfair tactics" which they said were used in "steamrolling" them into jail.

Solicitor Gen. Jack Ballinger, whose role is similar to the disbarment in Monroe County, of Baxley, Ga., denied the charges of the two men.

30-Day Forecast: Cold, More Cold

WASHINGTON (AP) — The northern half of the nation, much of it already shivering in frigid Arctic air, was advised yesterday to expect below-normal temperatures for another 30 days.

The Weather Bureau's 30-day outlook through mid-February said the far Southwest can look for higher than normal temperatures. The remainder of the country will have near normal readings on the average but with large fluctuations.

The western third of the nation will get more than normal precipitation, providing moisture for many areas which have been unusually dry. Above normal precipitation was forecast also east of the Appalachians, while sub-normal amounts are indicated for the Great Lakes region and Texas. Elsewhere the precipitation will be about normal.

"Owing to the anticipated cold weather and storm movements," the bureau said, "most of the precipitation over the northern two-thirds of the country is expected to be in the form of snow rather than rain."

Authority Appoints Atty. Koehler

Appointment of Lee Koehler of East Stroudsburg as attorney for the Monroe County Redevelopment Authority highlighted a meeting of the organization yesterday in the county courthouse.

The by-laws were read and approved and William Schmidt of the consulting firm of Candeub, Cabot and Associates showed preliminary sketches of land use in the Lincoln Ave. project in East Stroudsburg. He indicated completed land use maps will be available at the authority's next meeting.

The group passed a resolution urging the Monroe County Housing Authority to contact the Public Housing Administration in an effort to secure more public housing for persons who will be relocated as a result of the Lincoln Ave. project.

A similar resolution asked the East Stroudsburg Planning Commission to assist in the relocation.

3 Monroe Men To Be Arraigned Today

THREE Monroe County men indicted Wednesday by a Federal Grand Jury in Scranton, will be arraigned today before a U. S. Commissioner at Scranton.

Warrants for the arrest of Gerald E. Shanley Jr., First Sgt. Vincent Marek Jr. and Master Sgt. Robert Schoonover were issued late yesterday afternoon, assistant U. S. Attorney Carlton O'Malley Jr. said last night.

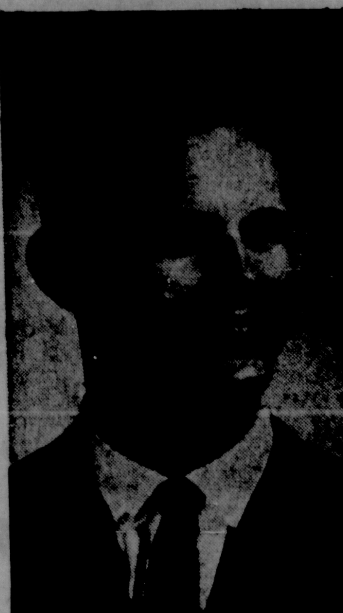

The three men were indicted on charges of forgery, using the U. S. Mail to defraud and conspiring to defraud the U. S. Government.

Shanley, assistant vice president of First Stroudsburg National Bank, was indicted on 12 charges. Sgt. Marek on 19 charges and Sgt. Schoonover on 6 counts. All of the counts pertained to payroll irregularities in Company A, National Guard, East Stroudsburg.

Col. John Remetta, First Battle Group, commander, 109th Inf., 28th Division, Scranton, said last night, "I am in no position to make any statement on the disposition of the men. The state adjutant general is investigating the case and I expect a statement in the near future."

He added, "The books of Co. 'A' will be audited Monday night in the East Stroudsburg Armory. He also said that a formal change of command will take place when Lt. George Brodhead will become the new commanding officer of the company.

Brodhead will replace Lt. Robert Besson who was assigned to another post.

RALPH O. BURROWS, principal of the East Stroudsburg Area Joint Senior High School, announced that Peter F. Maaser Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter F. Maaser, of 380

Woman, 72, Hit By Car In Stroud

MRS. MAYME ANDRE, 72, of 1162 W. Main St., Stroudsburg, was reported in guarded condition last night at Monroe County General Hospital where she is being treated for injuries sustained when she was struck by a car as she walked beside W. Main St., in Stroud Township at 5:29 p. m. yesterday.

She suffered a fractured pelvis and concussion. Police Chief Lester C. Rice of Stroud Township, identified the driver of the car as Ernest Ridgeway, 2064 Miller St., Stroudsburg.

The accident occurred about 40 feet west of the borough line. Rice said the fender of Ridgeway's car struck the woman. Rice said no charges are contemplated against the driver.

34 Democrats Dropped From State Payroll

HARRISBURG (AP) — The names of 34 Democrats, including 13 county chairmen, were dropped from the state payroll Thursday by the two-day-old Republican administration.

The list was topped by H. C. Erickson, Camp Hill, Cumberland County Democrat; chairman, who held the post of deputy secretary of property and supplies at an annual salary of $14,657.

The other highly paid posts included those of Fred Klunk, Adams County chairman who was secretary of the state employees' retirement board, $13,979, and James W. Miller, Perry County chairman, who was a Revenue Department administrative officer also $13,979.

The range of pay scale for those dismissed was from $4,700 for some stenographers and investigators for various boards and commissions. The general range of salaries was in the $6,000 to $9,000 class.

Borough police identified the drivers as Martin Ellsweig, 43, of 58 S. Green St., East Stroudsburg, and Doris Halterman, 39, East Stroudsburg, RD 2.

Police said Ellsweig's car skidded on an icy curve as he descended from Fifth toward Third St. and the two vehicles collided almost head-on. Damage was estimated at $250 to Ellsweig's car and $200 to the Halterman vehicle.

Child Playing With Matches Starts Fire

FIRE started by a six-year-old child playing with matches caused extensive damage to one-half of a double house at 311 Main St., Stroudsburg, at 12:45 p. m. yesterday.

Nelson Lightner, Stroudsburg fire chief, said the house is owned by Edythe G. Martin, 140 Lackawanna Ave., East Stroudsburg. He identified the occupant as Robert Davis.

Lightner said the fire was started in a second floor bedroom and burned into the attic. There was extensive water damage in the house and some water damage in the other half of the double property at 309 Main St.

The fire was brought under control in about 20 minutes, but firemen remained at the scene until 2:10 p. m.

Depot To Cite Civil Service At Banquet

PRESIDENT Kennedy has proclaimed January 1963 as the month for observing the 80th anniversary of the Civil Service Act.

The Act, which was signed into law on Jan. 16, 1883, established the merit system of employment in Federal service.

At the Tobyhanna Army Depot, where 2,650 are employed under the Civil Service system, the observance will take the form of a banquet at the Officers' Club, Wednesday night, Jan. 23.

Principal speaker will be R. P. Rosengren, Information Officer of the U. S. Army Supply and Maintenance Command. The recently created Command includes 43 Army depots and Overseas Supply Agencies in New York, San Francisco and New Orleans.

It employs more than 80,000 persons and handles an inventory valued at $20-billion.

Rosengren will discuss the role played by the S&M Command during the recent Cuban crisis.

In-Service Training For Toll Officers

AN IN-SERVICE training program conducted by New Jersey State Police Academy instructors for Delaware Joint Toll Bridge Commission police officers opened yesterday at Delaware Water Gap and will continue until Feb. 1.

The course is one of three being conducted this year. The others are at Morrisville and Phillipsburg. A similar series of courses was conducted for the bridge commission in 1964 at Milford.

The 132 police officers employed on the commission's five toll and 10 free bridges are participating in the program. Subjects include criminal and traffic law, accident investigation, traffic direction and court procedures.

Special lectures are being given by William R. Johnson, acting executive director of the commission, and Richard O. Goepfert, commission toll and traffic officer, on commission rules and regulations and police ethics.

The Pennsylvania State Police will conduct similar courses in February.

Avoid Prejudgment

Naturally, the community we call home was shocked yesterday to read the news of the indictment of two members and a former officer of the local National Guard unit. Such a situation is not, however, the time for snap judgments or quick decision. It is neither an indictment of the unit itself, nor is it a proof of guilt of the persons involved.

This particular unit is part and parcel of the famed 28th Division, which has a wartime and peacetime record that is second to none—beginning with the Mexican Border War, through the doughboys of World War I, and on through such ordeals as the Battle of the Bulge in World War II. Some of its members also served in the Korean campaign.

Honors have been achieved and earned on the integrity of its members as foot soldiers in defense of the principles of democracy for which Americans have fought—and for which many have died. There was no room in war to shirk duty or be involved in any type of creating—it has been a constant drive forward for principles.

Nor was peacetime very different. The local unit capped its service on the battlefield by its service to its neighbors during the disastrous floods of August 1955, when death and devastation reigned in the area. At that time, the officer under indictment took command of Company A, which, under his direction, rendered service above and beyond the call of duty to citizens smitten by the flood. The service of these men at that time is without parallel.

We do not condone any wrong-doing of any kind, but this exceptional record of service must be considered and, in all fairness and justice to those involved, no snap decision should be made until the wheels of justice which govern our democracy have been activated and all facets of the situation have been heard in a court of law.

These men who have served their nation must be heard before they are judged. An indictment is not a conviction. These men must be fairly heard before a trial jury and are innocent until they may be proved in fault.

Again emphasizing that we will never condone deliberate wrong-doing, we reiterate that those involved must, in all fairness, be considered innocent unless guilt is proved. Public opinion can hang a man just as easily as mob rule. Let's not act like an unruly mob in this case either! Wait 'till the case is tried.

'What A Baby For Him To Leave On Our Doorstep!'

By Burton H. Fern, M. D.

Does your teenager yearn for a better appearance, sparkling personality and good grades?

Then remind him, "You are what you eat!"

Most adolescents want to look attractive. Girls crave a neat figure; boys, strong muscles. Neither wants flab.

They burn thousands of extra calories building new tissue as they grow. And thousands more in games, sports, dancing and racing around.

All this requires coordination and mental alertness!

So does school! When you feel well and think clearly, you can read, retain and recall better. An attractive teenaged per-

How many remember when several small boys smoking cigarettes caused a fire near the barn owned by William Adams? They were smoking in a hay stack.

Between the steelworkers and management has gone too deep. Just the other day the Pittsburgh area was electrified to hear that United Steelworkers employees of the Kaiser Steel Corporation on the distant Pacific coast had voted to adopt a labor contract calling for workers to receive a share of production cost savings. This, a non-inflationary agreement, is the first of its kind in a basic steel company.

What this signifies is that the old ideas of the Three Musketeers of Productivity have at last taken root. Joe Scanlon and Clint Golden didn't live to see it. But Harold Ruttenberg is alive to savor a victory that should humiliate no one. In this instance labor, management and the consumer all stand to win.

Food For Teenaged Minds

sonality sparkles with pep and enthusiasm. Guys and gals don't go for the sluggish, irritable types.

Inherited traits decide how tall you'll grow, but without proper foods you'll wind up shorter than intended. With better nutrition, people are now taller than ever.

Protein helps build muscle and firm tissue. Teenagers need plenty of meat, fish, poultry and other protein-rich foods.

Beside extra calories, snacks can supply vital calcium in milks and shakes. Hot dogs, hamburgers, peanut butter and cheeses are chock-full of protein. Fruits and vegetables provide extra vitamins and minerals.

Eating too many calories causes fatty flab. If you're too plump, cut down on rich foods and grow into your weight.

Proper Diet

To help your complexion, eat yellow and dark green vegetables (vitamin A), citrus fruits (vitamin C), meat, liver and enriched bread (B-complex).

Calcium, vitamins and protein are all essential for smooth nerve and brain function—coordination and alertness. These brain foods help: study, training and hard work do the rest.

Teenagers Don't Understand Serving good meals isn't enough. You can lead a teenager to food, but you can't make him eat—unless he wants to!

For a booklet explaining all this to teenagers: Send 25 cents to Public Affairs Pamphlets, 22 E. 39th St., N. Y. 16, N. Y., and request No. 299, "Personality Plus" from Diet.

One thing is for sure the adult people of Roseto who tend to be chunkier than the average guy and girl don't pay much attention to their diets nor calorie charts. They believe in a psychological approach—eat, drink and be merry—over a gastronomical way. And who can prove them wrong now.

When the circus was in town, a hard-pressed publicity head conceived the notion of having his boss pose combing out a lion's mane. "We've got a pretty tough bunch of lions," a circus executive reminded him. "They wouldn't take kindly to a stranger in their cage."

"That's all right," said the publicity man. "My boss is such a hound for publicity, he wouldn't even notice."

Undeclared Atmospheric Test Moratorium Aired

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second of two columns based on the official and still-secret transcript of President Kennedy's for-background-only press conference in Palm Beach, December 31. Yesterday's column dealt with the President's views regarding Cuba. Today's column deals with nuclear weapons testing and other momentous foreign questions.

Washington, January 18 — President Kennedy has re-imposed a moratorium on this country's testing of nuclear weapons.

This unannounced momentous action was taken despite continued Russian testing.

Last fall Premier Khrushchev announced the Soviet would end its long series of atmospheric nuclear tests in November. Despite this widely publicized declaration, there has been no let-up in Russian tests. The latest took place January 5.

Several weeks ago this column disclosed that these new Soviet tests have been most extraordinary. They include a number of ballistic missile firings, ranging from ICBMs to anti-missile missiles. In one of these tests, three IRBMs were destroyed by a single nuclear blast from the warhead of what U. S. experts believe is the latest Soviet anti-missile missile.

The U. S. has had no comparable tests.

This country's renewed unilateral suspension of atmospheric nuclear weapons testing was revealed by the President under questioning at his controversial for-background-only press conference in Palm Beach, December 31.

He was asked, "Are we headed for another round of tests?"

"Not now," replied the President. "We are not going to test in the atmosphere for a while. Our underground tests will continue. We are still trying to work out a nuclear test agreement (with the Russians)."

Other than these unreported off-the-record remarks, there has been no word of this new non-testing policy.

Leaders of the Joint Congressional Atomic Committee are much disturbed by this back-stage move. Officials of the Pentagon and Atomic Energy Commission will be summoned to report fully on this far-reaching decision.

The President's Explanation — One of the 30-odd newsmen who took part in this year-end background conference pointed out to the President that "you resumed atmospheric nuclear testing to maintain our edge, our technical edge, in weaponry."

"We haven't heard much about these tests," continued the reporter. "Are you satisfied we still have that margin?"

"Yes," replied the President, and then asserted that "technical margin" is becoming increasingly "less significant." Methods of delivering nuclear weapons are steadily assuming greater weight.

Following is his exposition of that view which manifestly was decisive in his unannounced decision to reinstate this country's moratorium on nuclear tests:

"Means of delivery get to be the significant factor; whether you can put so many kilotons or megatons into a bomb if so many pounds really is not as vital a question as how much of a missile force you have and how much conventional forces, and how much transport you have, and your willingness to use all these. So the actual sophistication of a weapon is not as decisive a point as it used to be."

"In answer to your question, I would say that we are still ahead of the Russians in some areas, and even with them in others. They have built a larger bomb than we have, but that is because we have never felt we had a strategic requirement for it."

Outlook For Peace — The President balked at being pinned down on his relations with Khrushchev since the Cuban showdown; on whether as a result of the latter there has been a significant shift in the balance of world power, and on the outlook for peace this year.

While he talked at some length on all these matters, he carefully sidestepped definite conclusions.

"It is very difficult to predict whether Khrushchev is anxious to have a detente with the United States," the President said. "I don't know . . . We are trying to do it to protect our interest and not have a war. If we suffer a major defeat, or if they suffer a major defeat, in some ways that may change the balance of power. But it also increases the danger of war."

Have the Sino-Soviet and Sino-Indian conflicts helped improve Khrushchev's relations with the President, he was asked. It was pointed out this is General de Gaulle's belief.

"I don't think we can say they are improving yet," said the President, "because I think we have been through too harsh an experience . . . I think it would be premature to say there is any evidence of improvement yet . . . I would say it is rather difficult to make any judgments, really about the balance of power. I think the balance of power is still on our side, but we have a lot of problems in all the undeveloped world."

On the prospects for peace this year, the President was slightly hopeful, but very cautiously so.

"Can you compare your estimate of the chances of keeping the peace in 1963 with what you thought they were at the beginning of 1962?" he was asked.

"Well, I would say they are slightly better," the President replied.

In response to other questions the President disclosed:

He wants to do considerable traveling in Latin America this year. He would like to go to Japan, and make a state visit to Britain, but has no plans for either. Africa is out, because a trip there would take too much time.

It is possible he may meet with General de Gaulle in the next few months, but "That is by no means assured."

U. S. troops would have been sent to Laos if a cease-fire agreement had not been reached. "We couldn't permit the Communists to overrun the country," said the President.

"And I think that was probably why we got the cease-fire at a time when the military balance of power was in the hands of the Pathet Laos."

Some gains have been scored by the Alliance for Progress in Latin America, but the problems there are "staggering." It is the President's belief that "we are not doing quite enough for Latin America." He pointed out the U. S. has done a great deal more for Western Europe and is still doing much there.

The Pennsylvania Story

Thoughts On The Inaugural

By Mason Denison

Harrisburg — Reporter's Notebook

Inaugural Flashbacks (No. 1) — Inauguration of a new Governor happens only once every four years in Pennsylvania (thank goodness) but when it does happen it's usually an interesting and sometimes humorous event . . . This reporter has weathered seven such inaugurations — and yet each one has its interesting little side points.

First one that comes to mind from our notes of Tuesday's horn-blowing affair was the curious scurry on the part of Harrisburg City Highway employees the day before the inaugural to patch up the potholes on Third Street, the main route to the inaugural parade . . . As one local resident commented dryly: "Well, having an inaugural is one way to get our streets fixed!"

(No. 2) — Unquestionably it was with a touch of irony that Pennsylvania Democrats moved their state headquarters to Third Street virtually at the foot of the steps leading up to Capitol Hill . . . They made their location move following the election of Pennsylvania's first Democratic Governor in 16 years — that of Governor Lehigh back in 1954 — apparently with the thought in mind that they would have a permanent "Democratic" Capitol Hill.

Or, as one Democratic wag phrased it at the time — "this way we'll be able to watch our inaugurations from our own state headquarters" . . . The inauguration Tuesday however was for Republican William W. Scranton — with Democratic State Headquarters only 150 feet from the Scranton gubernatorial reviewing stand . . . As Democratic state leaders sat inside their headquarters den their ears were blasted by the GOP victory parade which marched by their very door for two hours! . . . "Oh what ignominy!"

(No. 3) — Will it become a trade mark of the new new Republican Scranton Administration? . . . The dozen or so lead cars for officialdom during inaugural day ceremonies were brand new Cadillac . . . The rule of thumb of the past two Democratic administrations — vehicle-wise — has been Fords, Chevys and Plymouths for the most part, with a few older Lincolns thrown in.

(No. 4) — Harrisburg City Police mounted on motorcycles, serving as lead escort for movements of the inaugural party most certainly went all-out for the occasion — at least from a patriotic standpoint . . . At the front of each motorcycle was a jump of little American flags flapping brisley — with proper patriotism!

Jay Ward, producer of one of TV's most successful shows, "Bullwinkle," told Columnist Herb Stein about a letter he received from a youthful fan that read: "My father has been difficult with me. Every time he drinks a certain cocktail he throws me around the room. What can I do?" Ward answered: "Send us your dad's recipe. Several fellows who work on our show are having trouble with their kids, too!"

When the circus was in town, a hard-pressed publicity head conceived the notion of having his boss pose combing out a lion's mane. "We've got a pretty tough bunch of lions," a circus executive reminded him. "They wouldn't take kindly to a stranger in their cage."

"That's all right," said the publicity man. "My boss is such a hound for publicity, he wouldn't even notice."

In Bermuda, a formidable lady spent an hour poring over the stock of a book shop near the Salt Kettle House. After rejecting numerous suggestions, she finally decided. "Oh well, I'll take this Ian Fleming paperback." The clerk gave her a startled look, and then said gently, "But, madam, this is the book you brought in with you."

"Well, GO home to Mother, then! At least YOU'LL be getting good cooking!"

News Source Protection

The grand jury investigating Philadelphia's City Hall scandals has gone beyond this specific question to touch upon an issue that affects us all.

At stake in the outcome of contempt proceedings against Philadelphia Bulletin City Editor Earl Selby is a principle basic to a free press and to the interests of the public which it serves: The right of a newspaper and its reporters not to be forced to divulge their news sources.

The Bulletin hearings will be resumed today. They arose from a refusal by Selby before the grand jury last week to produce records or answer questions that, in effect, would reveal the sources of Bulletin stories on the alleged corruption by Philadelphia officials.

At issue is a 1937 Pennsylvania law. Three years ago, the Legislature reaffirmed the legal principle by extending the protection to radio and TV newsmen. But an assistant district attorney has asked for contempt citations, and Judge Joseph E. Gold has said there are doubts about the constitutionality of the law.

If there are any doubts about the law, they should be cleared up once and for all. Support of the Bulletins' position by such professional news organizations as the Pennsylvania Newspaper Publishers Association, the Pennsylvania Society of Newspaper Editors and Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalistic society, is not an automatic reflex action in response to a colleague's plight. It stems from an understanding of what is involved for all Pennsylvanians.

The Bulletin is not impeding a probe of corruption in Philadelphia. Rather, it is because of its reporting that the grand jury probe is a reality. The wrongdoing intimated in the news accounts became a campaign issue last year. And, as the newspaper has stated, "a sincere and diligent grand jury" should be able to uncover far more than reporters.

What makes this kind of investigative reporting possible is that people will talk to newsmen in the assurance that their names won't be revealed by the newspapers which follow up their leads. Without this protection, this way to smoke out wrongdoing in public office would be lost.

Other news sources would dry up, too, even on stories where no corruption is involved. People would be reluctant to talk with newsmen if there was any chance that their superiors might learn of it and their jobs might then be in jeopardy.

Perhaps Governor Scranton best summed up the reason for the principle of protecting news sources.

"I personally agree with this concept and think that in general it is proper. It would seem to me to be most important in preserving the freedom of the press. It is clear that the reason for the adoption of this legislation is that it is in the public interest that newspapers must be free to seek out information—and to protect the sources of this information."

The principle embodied in the 1937 law should be upheld. Without it, office-holders of either party at any level of government would find it much easier to cover up wrongdoing. A reversal of the law would not be in the public interest.

Victory Without Humiliation

Once there were three of them. Their names were Joseph Scanlon, Clinton Golden and Harold Ruttenberg, and they formed a yeasty and somewhat dissident element in the high councils of the United Steel workers of America.

Around Pittsburgh they were known as the productivity boys, the ones who wanted the members of the steel union to cooperate with employers in working out amicable cost-cutting programs as the basis for earning higher hourly wages.

For years the Three Musketeers of Productivity preached their gospel of "efficiency sharing." For years they tried to mitigate the harshness of class war feeling when the union was squaring off to make its demands on management.

They wanted labor to help make steel companies so profitable that there would be money to share between workers and stockholders without raising the tonnage price of steel to the consumer.

When he was still alive, President Philip Murray of the United Steel Workers kept the Three Musketeers of Productivity on edge with a promise. "Some day," so he cryptically told Scanlon, But Phil Murray died, and meanwhile the steel union went right on asking for increased wages and higher fringe benefits without regard either to hourly efficiency or the inflationary impact of its demands on the price of steel.

True enough, Joe Scanlon had some minor successes; he worked out a few cost-cutting programs with some small steel fabricators, notably in Ohio. One company, the Adamson Tank Company, put in a plan that enabled its employees, all members of the steel union, to get their share of the profits arising from an employer-worker efficiency drive.

But the high command in the steel union remained privately contemptuous of Scanlon's evangelism. Tired of battling his head against a stone wall, Joe Scanlon resigned from the union and betook himself from Pittsburgh to Cambridge, Mass., where he joined the faculty of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and gave a course in labor-management relations.

The other Musketeers also felt the hopelessness of their position. Clint Golden retired to write books; Harold Ruttenberg, after a sojourn in Washington with the War Production Board, became a steel master for Cynus Eaton in Portsmouth, Ohio.

Well, the years rolled on, and Golden and Scanlon both died. The one remaining Musketeer, Harold Ruttenberg, proved to be a whizz in business. He made himself enough money as a steel master to buy a company which made well-drilling equipment for sale all over the world.

But the itch to get back into the business of working out labor-management efficiency programs for the steel industry was too strong for Harold Ruttenberg. He sold his well-drilling equipment company and put the money into supermarkets, to provide a source of income for his large family.

Then he formed some thing called Humanation, Incorporated, and set out to advise employers on working out voluntary programs with workers to the end of achieving "a common objective of increasing productivity."

David McDonald, the man who had succeeded Philip Murray as president of the United Steelworkers of America, was not entirely pleased when he learned about Ruttenberg's new activity. Around Pittsburgh he has been quoted as saying that Ruttenberg was trying to humiliate him, and that Ruttenberg's new advisory company should be called, not Humanation, Inc., but "Humiliation, Inc."

In the Pittsburgh area steel fabricating companies, unable to pay high union wages, kept going out of business. And membership in the United Steelworkers of America kept shrinking. The facts of life were going against David McDonald.

It was not long before McDonald, swallowing his pride, was condescending to ask Ruttenberg to help save some companies that employed members of the steel union. Real cooperation, however, has been hard to achieve in the Pittsburgh region; the shadow of distrust be-

Guidance Center Requests $4,300 From Area Budget

Word From Others In Outer Space?

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Scientists are thinking of one day getting a coded message from other beings on other worlds somewhere in space.

They have even simulated the kind of message they might expect. One such message consists of 1,271 ones and zeroes in what looks like random order. But it is a code that can be reproduced in picture form.

To start with, such a code may reduce itself to a coded square. Mathematically, the number 1,271 can be produced by multiplying 31 times 41. So perhaps this square of 1,271 units is 31 units on two sides, 41 units on the other two sides.

Marking a dot for every "1" and leaving a blank for every "0", a picture begins to appear.

Tells Great Deal

In a sample message, portrayed in a recent issue of International Science and Technology magazine, the picture tells a great deal indeed.

At the bottom are three beings, looking much like humans—in fact, like a man, a woman and a child. At the right of the picture is a portrayal of the solar system that the beings inhabit. The "man" is pointing to the fourth planet—presumably the home planet. Next to the third planet are what appears to be waves and a fish, indicating these folks get around by space vehicles in their own solar system, and know that a neighboring planet has water and life.

Other sample messages have been devised too, using shorter codes that are reducible to picture-messages. Scientists use these examples only to show that a great deal of information could be transmitted to us in coded form.

Sweet A Problem

For long-term space flights, even perspiration can be a problem. But Project Mercury astronauts wear a special kind of undershirt to reduce the discomfort of sweat.

It's actually a simple cotton undershirt—but it has patches of honey-combed material in it. Air circulates through the spaces and evaporates perspiration, drawing it into the air-conditioning system where it can be filtered out.

2,860 Get Surplus Food In January

H. RAY Saunders reported yesterday to the Monroe County commissioners that surplus food was distributed to 2,860 people in January. This was 409 more than the 2,451 reported during December, 1962.

Foods distributed during the recent two-day program were flour, rice, cornmeal, powdered milk, meat and butter.

In other business the commissioners approved county aid to several families. They also rejected several who did not qualify for aid.

The commissioners also met with Miss Elizabeth Martin, Monroe County probation officer, and discussed several cases her department is handling.

Jailed For Passing Illegally

GERALD HUGHES, 19, of 1279-C Wooding St., Bethlehem, was committed to the Stroudsburg lock-up yesterday in default of $37.50 bail.

Hughes is charged with illegal passing by Assistant Stroud Township Police Chief Lester Rice.

He will be given a hearing before Justice of the Peace Forrest Sebring at a later date.

New Carbon Steel Developed

COATESVILLE, Pa. (AP)—The Lukens Steel Co. announced Thursday introduction of a major new line of superior strength carbon steels.

Charles L. Huston Jr., president of the company, said the steels, designated the "Lukens M-Series," provide at least 15 per cent greater yield point and 10 per cent greater tensile strength over other carbon plate steels manufactured to specified chemistry ranges standard throughout the steel industry.

He said many of our country's vital industries can save at least 15 per cent in material costs. Huston said the company has improved its steelmaking practices and recently invested $50 million in new plan and equipment.

Bid For Huge Baling Press

NEW YORK (AP)—A Georgia company said it was the successful bidder to build a huge baling press for Bethlehem Steel Co. The press will produce an average bale of 10,000 pounds, said a spokesman for Harris Foundry and Machine Co., Cordele, Ga. He said it "greatly surpasses by every established rule of measurement all previous baling presses built." Harris is a wholly-owned subsidiary of Williams-McWilliams Industries Inc., New Orleans.

Language 'Lab' Installed At Pocono Joint High

POCONO Mountain Joint High School has added another modern innovation to its newly constructed high school at Swiftwater, namely a modern Language Laboratory.

This completely transistorized Rheem Califorme Laboratory accommodates 24 students in individual acoustically paneled booths.

Each student has the opportunity of spending two periods per week in the laboratory in order to gain oral proficiency in the language he is studying. In the balance of his weekly class recitations he will continue to use his textbooks.

The ultimate aim of the Foreign Language department is to have each student understand, speak, read and write the language. However, in attaining these goals, PM officials said, "we must bear in mind that the function of the Language Laboratory is based on the fact that language is something you understand and say before it is something you read and write."

Thus, the "Lab" goes a long way in helping the student understand and speak the language as it is used in its culture," they offered.

At this time, more than 100 students are taking French in the high school under the direction of Miss Alice Finnerty, head of the Department of Foreign Languages. One hundred and forty-nine students are taking Spanish under the direction of Roy L. Seema, who also coordinates the Audio-Visual

Greene - Dreher Education Fund Organization Elects

NEWFOUNDLAND — Officers of the Greene-Dreher Educational Fund organization which was set up in 1962 to financially assist needy and worthy students who want to further their education, were re-elected for the year 1963 during the Annual Meeting held at Southern Wayne Joint School.

The Rev. Larry T. Lindenmuth has returned to the office of president, heading this slate: Mrs. Aileen Weiland, vice president; Mrs. Peggy Bancroft, secretary; Willard Newcomer, treasurer.

A grant to a college student was studied and approved. This is the first award made by the board of directors of the fund.

Conclusions

The board discussed the Community Fund Drive held in October. They concluded that September is a good month for the drive; that Friday night is not the best night because too many people are not home; that the Youth Fellowship is a good organization to head the drive, since they are responsible, willing, and organized; that letters should be sent to community organizations prior to the drive; that a standard, mimeographed form should be used by drivers to report results; that the solicitors should have a training session.

A financial report issued by the board showed the results of a year's planning and cooperation by community residents, organizations, and members of the board.

Donations and gifts were as follows: Community Fund Drive, $285.66; individual gifts, $100; Parent-Teacher Association, $75; Future Farmers of America, $100; American Legion Post #59, $50; Greene-Dreher Women's Club, $50; Southern Wayne Activities Fund, $25; Newfoundland Rotary Club, $150; Greenwood-Stroudland-South Sterling Youth Fellowship, $105; Promised Land Community Club, $50, totaling $1040.66. Expenditures were $2.36, leaving a balance on hand at the time of the Annual Meeting of $1038.30.

Also available for evening study are a number of courses of an informal nature, designed to meet special needs of the local industrial and business community.

Increase Cost Of Fixtures

NEW YORK (AP)—Crane Co. announced price increases on plumbing fixtures ranging from 5 per cent to 11 per cent. It said the increase "restored prices on plumbing fixtures to 1959 levels."

D. C. Fabiani, president, said that because of a price war Crane had been selling many items below cost.

"This practice," he said, "is irrational, unrealistic and unfair from the point of view not only of our shareholders but also our distributors."

Harness Group Postpones Meet

HARRISBURG (AP)—The State Harness Racing Commission yesterday postponed its meeting scheduled for next Monday.

General Counsel Harry L. Rossi said the postponement was decided because neither the staff nor the commissioners had any business for the agenda.

The terms of the three members expire at the end of next week, Jan. 26.

Gov. Scrantom has not made known any position as to reappointment or replacement of the commissioners.

The House Of The Week

Four Bedrooms In Only 1,300 Square Feet

By JULES LOH

IN THE vernacular of the times, this is a house for the "emerging family" — one whose population and economic development, shall we say, hasn't reached its full potential.

In a basic space of only 1,300 square feet, architect Samuel Paul has packaged seven rooms, including four bedrooms, and two and one-half baths. Yet nothing is crowded; there is plenty of elbow room, plenty of space for modest entertaining, plenty of rooming room for youngsters.

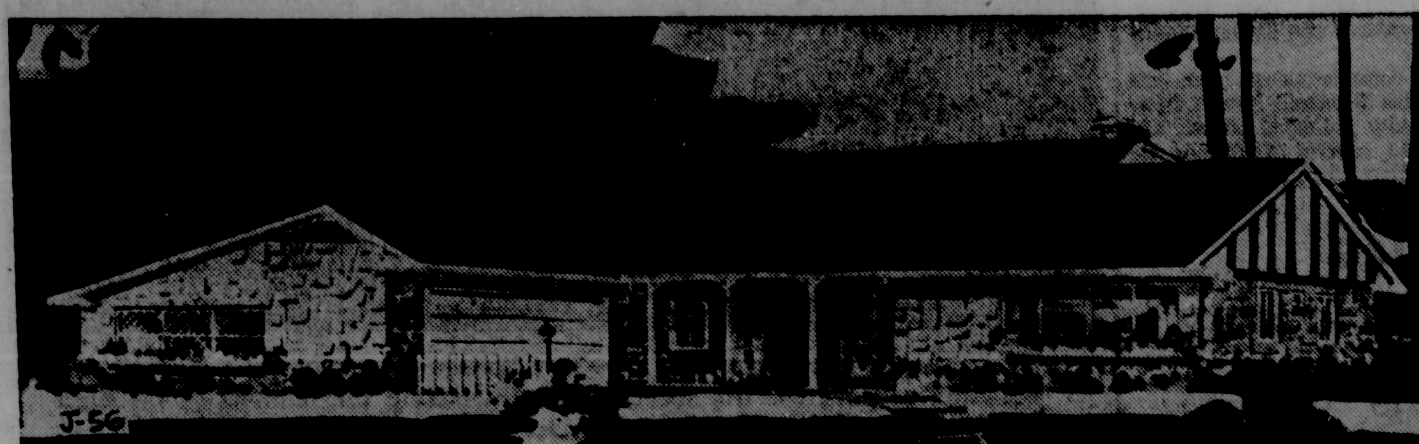

In other words, it's the type house a young and growing family with a young and growing income should study closely.

The reason there is so much house in so little space is because it is at one and one-half-story model, though from the street it looks like a ranch. In this type house the roof has a sharper pitch so that simply by including a dormer the space that normally would be an attic becomes a perfectly habitable second story.

This means the second story, which contains two large bedrooms and a full bath, doesn't have to be finished until somebody comes along to occupy them.

It amounts to 548 square feet of extra space at extremely low cost, since it doesn't require what could be called structural building costs, with the added benefit that it can be provided bit by bit.

Just as the formal area is enlarged functionally by combining living and dining rooms, the family room - kitchen combination provides a spacious 231-square-

ATTRACTIVE AND ECONOMICAL: With its stone veneer, stucco and a dash of redwood siding, the rustic colonial flavor of this house likely will be charming and tasteful for decades to come. It is a one and one-half story model containing seven rooms, including four large bedrooms, and two and one-half baths in surprisingly little basic area.

foot informal area. Plenty of windows assure lots of natural light and fresh air, and make supervision easy whether the kids are on the flagstone play patio or covered front verandah.

Architect Paul has provided a high degree of privacy for the downstairs bedrooms. Not only are they clearly zoned away from the living area with sound buffers between, but a sliding door completely closes off the sleeping wing.

A large bathroom with a dual vanity serves both bedrooms, and the nearby lavatory is perfectly placed for emergency family service.

Upstairs, the expansion bedrooms are even larger than those below, and the second floor bathroom also has a dual vanity. All four bedrooms are characterized by an enormous amount of closet space.

Spreading of closets, don't overlook the three under the balcony; two for coats and one for kitchen and utility storage.

The house contains a partial cellar, located under the foyer and bedroom wing, with ample space for recreation, utility and storage space. The 41-square-foot garage also is oversized for extra storage room.

Another plus feature of the house is its durable exterior — not only in materials but also in styling. Its rustic colonial flavor, with stone veneer, stucco and a dash of redwood siding, has been charming and tasteful for decades and likely will remain so.

The house itself is 46 feet six inches wide by 11 feet 10 inches deep, but the garage protrusion makes its overall dimensions 55 feet six inches wide by 54 feet two inches deep and architect Paul suggests a plot of 70 feet by 100 feet to take full advantage of its looks and outdoor features.

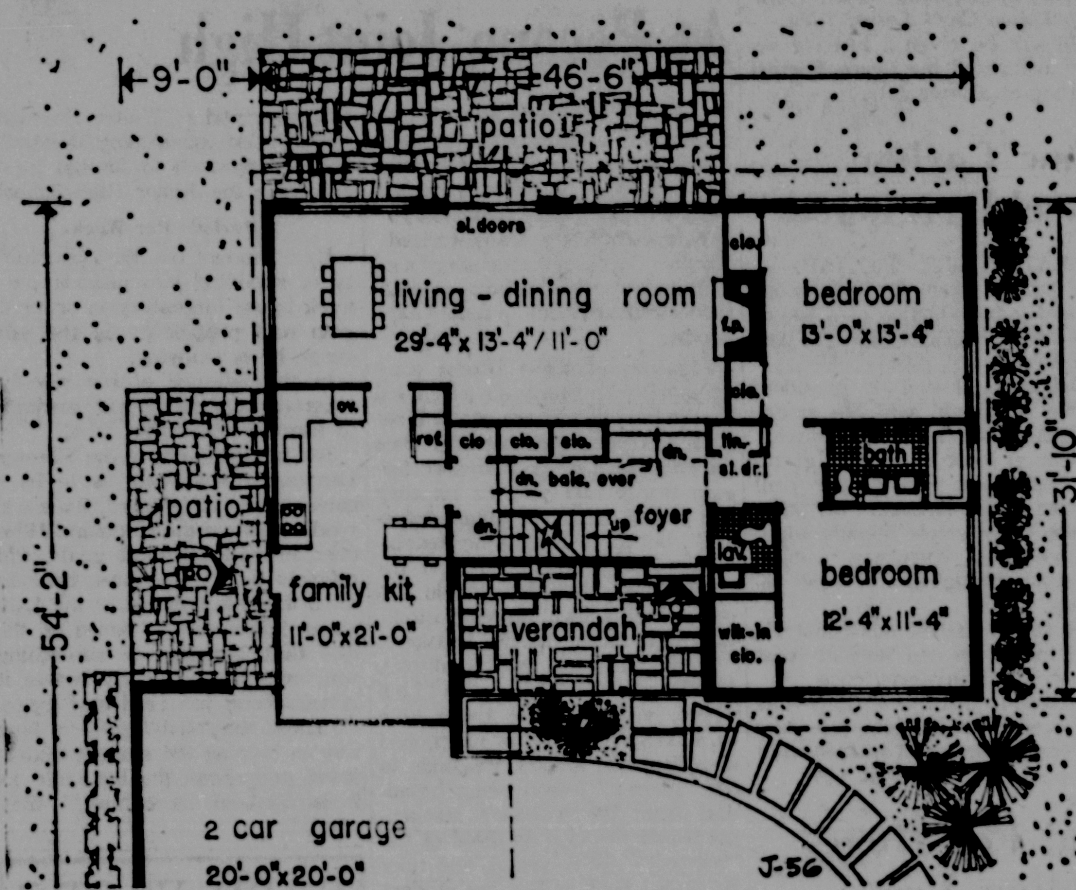

Additional Details
Floor plans which have the living room in the rear always are interesting, and this one is especially so.

Because of an indentation for the front verandah (which provides a honey touch as well as a covered entry) the front foyer can lead directly to the rear living room with nothing intervening.

The foyer has a high cathedral ceiling and an open staircase to the second floor balcony, creating an atmosphere of grandeur.

The living-dining room stretches nearly 30 feet across the back, with broad expanses of glass flanking sliding glass doors which lead to the patio. A handsome brick fireplace with a stone hearth catches the eye immediately on entering from the foyer.

Just Between Us—

What with fashions and features and special assignments, I haven't had time to catch up on personal news or personal activities since I got back from New York until yesterday.

While it's good news for the people involved, it's not the sort to make the rest of us turn handsprings to learn that John Watt has got a house in Palm Beach so Cynthia and Sandy are leaving a week from Monday to join him, or that Lois Flick is going back to Cincinnati where her husband has been transferred. Women golfers and bowlers will miss them, along with lots of other friends.

Yesterday, too, was the first time I had to investigate the anonymous letter which arrived during my absence, addressed to Wobley Westbrook, containing a heart clipped from a magazine with a running faucet and the query "How's the Water in Your House?" together with what the directions call a "Folded finger bowl," a napkin size cloth saturated with pleasing lemon scented cleansing lotion."

Hearing Clinic Slated By Crippled Children's Assn.

A Pre-school Hearing Clinic will be held at Harmony Hall June 9 to June 21. It was announced at the meeting of the board of directors of the Monroe County Crippled Children and Adults Assn., Inc., held at the YMCA this week. The Monroe County Medical Society will be asked to give the names of any child eligible to attend the clinic.

Dr. James Reed, president, proposed that a luncheon meeting be arranged with all related health agencies to spell out responsibilities and boundaries which the board approved.

The Crippled Children's film "Meet Randy" will be available for showing in Monroe County from Feb. 18 until March 2. Mrs. John L. Runney announced, she and Mrs. C. B. Rosenkrans will request time on organization programs to show the film.

Mrs. Rosenkrans reported on nine current cases, their progress and present status. Wheelchairs, braces, walkers, hospitalization and examinations have been provided as needed.

Slave Lash, Clam, Logging Pike Among Historical Museum's Acquisitions

A finished clam, a slave lash, a logskin and pine stick used in rafting, and an antique typewriter are among the more unusual acquisitions of the Monroe County Historical Society Museum announced by the curator, Mrs. Horace G. Walters, at the annual business meeting.

The finished clam was found in the garden at 225 East Broad St., East Stroudsburg and was presented by the Fred Stine family.

The rafting equipment along with an antique from coffee grinder both were the property of Charles Van Vleet, (b. 1808-d. 1844) and were presented by a descendant, Mrs. Thomas J. Breitwieser.

The typewriter, patent date, 1886, belonged to Dr. T. Floyd Rhodes and was presented by Mrs. Rhodes.

The slave lash was presented by Miss Olive P. Bond, who also presented the German Bible of her grandfather, George Bond, 1830 and the Jacob Starnes-Sebastian Brong Bible.

Wool, Nurses and Dentist's Lamp Echoes of industries and professions were also found in the brown wool hooded cape about 65 years old made from wool manufactured in the Kilton Woolen Mill, presented by Mrs. Helen Webb; the photograph of the class of 1892, Bloddy Hospital, (now Philadelphia General) including Dr. Mary Greenwald, (Mrs. Wilton A. Erdman) founder and president of the Monroe County Historical Society (1922-1938) presented by her daughter Lorraine Erdman Curtis; nurse's instrument kit and rink, Pittston Hospital, 1927, Mrs. E. Wood Grant; alcohol lamp used by Dr. C. G. Cross in his dental laboratory, presented by his daughter, Mrs. Frank Kerr.

Mrs. Kerr also presented antique glassware, relics and hand embroidery from the Theodore B. Drake home, a collection of hand painted needlework by Mrs. Samuel Collins; an oval bark tobacco box made in 1880 by Boss Ebel, Stroudsburg shoemaker; willow staff which belonged to Bernard Palmer, together with glassware and needlework of Mrs. C. G. Cross, old clothes, dishes, games and toys and wooden sandals from Okinawa from World War I.

The Day Books and Ledgers of Michael Heller Dreher, Stroudsburg merchant, spanning the years 1832-1857, and the Stroudsburg High School Maroon and White from 1922 were also presented by Mrs. Frank Kerr.

Mrs. Joseph M. Kerr presented a child's rocker and doll cradle which had been given to her in 1876, as well as a collection of old photographs of the Dreher family, and of Stroudsburg landmarks, with antique needlework and apparel and a pair of brass andirons used in Jacob Stroud's home.

Came in handy to wipe my beaded brow during some of the hectic hours before deadline, but to answer the water question for all who showed such concern: It's wonderful! Water gushes, purrs, and in the case of a few faucets, drips most satisfactorily.

The only trouble now is that I haven't had a chance to use it where it's needed most: On the floors, sinks, and tubs which during my personal water shortage got just plain filthy. A weekend of taking care of that situation should certainly dispell any illusions of grandeur I might have picked up as a fashion writer, per tem.

It might also help if I unpack the suitcases which still hold the only fashions I own, however unfashionable, and get those boxes of Christmas ornaments up 'n the attic. Altogether a necessary, useful—but also dreary prospectus. Which may be carried through if nobody suggests anything interesting.

Stroud (Mrs. Parvin Wright) granddaughter of John Stroud, as well as the lineage chart of Henry C. Wright, their son. Mrs. Loucks also presented the Christmas and New Year's book, published in 1828 which was a gift to Eleanor Stroud from her father. Another picture presented was a framed stintype of William D. Walton in Civil War Uniform as well as the belt buckle of that uniform and a letter written in 1861 from Camp Fennell presented by his great-granddaughter, Mrs. Patricia Walton Doleiden.

Quilts, Tapestries, Thermometer Needlework from many old families was among the many gifts. Mrs. Carrie Bartholomew Marsh presented relics from her grandparents, Rev. and Mrs. Abraham Bartholomew, including a tulip and heart applique quilt about 80 years old; a pressed glass butter dish with a glass dinner bell lid; a 1900 thermometer and a child's handmade wicker basket about 67 years old.

Museum Rooms Offer Treasures To Public View

The Monroe County Historical Museum and Library, storehouse of a wide variety of historical treasures, access to which is open to the public, is located on the first floor and basement of the Stroud Community House, Ninth and Main Streets, Stroudsburg. They are open each Tuesday afternoon from 1 to 4 throughout the year, as well as by appointment.

Mrs. Horace Walters, curator, reported that among the out-of-town visitors this year were descendants of the Brodhead family from Easton and descendants of the Stroud family from Colorado. School and Scout groups, 14 of them, had specially conducted tours during the year.

Special exhibits included an Easter egg exhibit in the Spring, a graduation exhibit in May and June and a Christmas card exhibit in December. In addition the society rooms were open for the Holmes Tour sponsored by the County Federation of Women's Clubs in July.

Assisting Mrs. Walters have been Mrs. Earl F. Groner and Mrs. Margaret Muthler and other members of the society. While waiting for visitors the members of the historical society have not been idle. They transcribed about 400 pages of vital records of local marriages, deaths, wills, tax and cemetery records which were typed and indexed, and answered many queries for genealogical and historical data.

In her curators report, Mrs. Walters also reported that a street lamp was purchased for the outside of the Stroud Community House, a cabinet was built for additional newspaper storage in the basement, and a new peg board display area was added.

Lady Firetower Operator To Speak At DAR Meeting

The Poconos' most famous lady fireman, Mrs. Forrest Motts, will be the speaker at the meeting of the Jacob Stroud Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, at their meeting on Monday at the Stroud Community House.

Actually, Mrs. Motts is a fire watcher who, since 1946, has been tower operator on the Big Pocono Mountain fire tower as an employee of the Department of Forests and Waters. She is the former Esther Raish, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Raish and was born and raised at the foot of Big Pocono where she now resides during the forest fire season.

For the long solitary hours in the tower, Mrs. Motts, graduate of Pocono High School in the class of 1933, studied art and poetry with Miss Frances M. Davis and has completed a course with the Northwestern School of Tadmery.

The subject of her talk will be "Red Hot Progress."

The program will follow a dessert at 1:30 with Mrs. Evan C. Reese and Mrs. Charles Reinhardt as hostesses and Mrs. Carlyle Huffman and Mrs. Daniel Lyons as co-chairmen.

Arlington PTA Plans Feb. Dance

The Arlington Heights Parent-Teachers Assn. will hold a dance on Feb. 15 at the school it was announced at their meeting this week.

Also planned was a penny supper with the tentative date set for Saturday, April 20. Mrs. William Eyer will serve as chairman of the committee which includes Mrs. John Abbruzzese, Mrs. Fred Clark, Mrs. Lawrence Dailey, and Mrs. Plimpton Berryman.

Mrs. George Keenhold presided at the meeting in the absence of the president, Mrs. Ray Roberts. An audience-participation program, "The Rumor Clinic" was featured.

In February the Arlington PTA will join with other units of the Stroud Union School District for the program to be held at the Morey School.

The next regular meeting of the group will be held March 20.

Congregational Meeting Sunday

Bartonsville — The annual congregational meeting of the members of St. John's Lutheran Church will be held immediately following worship services on January 27.

Reports will be presented, the budget discussed and three new council members will be elected. All members are urged to be present.

St. Paul's ULCW Tuesday Night

Tannersville — The Lutheran Church Women of St. Paul's will meet at the church on Tuesday night, Jan. 22, at 7:30.

Roberta Rasely will be program leader for "God's Call—My Response."

January hostesses are Vera Walters, Hilda Coss and Fannie Hay.

Lisa Ann Besecker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Besecker of 706 Fulmer Ave., celebrated her second birthday on Jan. 1.

Guests included Walter Slack, Tommy Slack, Beverly Slack, and Cathy Slack. Sending gifts were Duane Barleson, Todd Stettler, Brian Stettler and Cathy Stettler and son.

Flyte Heads Grace Lutheran Men's Group

Emmett W. Flyte was elected LCM president of Grace Lutheran Church Men on Wednesday evening at a venison and turkey dinner. Also elected were Russell M. Hoffman, Vice-President; Henry F. Peters, Sr., treasurer; and Elson S. Smith, Secretary. A fine attendance was present and accorded out-going president Ray Mery a vote of gratitude for his fine year's service. Robert A. Nichols was appointed program chairman to serve with a committee to be named by Emmett Flyte.

Russell Hoffman provided the evening's program with a kodachrome slide presentation of a recent trip to the Seattle's World Fair. He also projected films on Yosemite, Grand Canyon, Bad Lands, Yellowstone, Black Hills and other national parks and shrines. A hearty applause was given Mr. Hoffman for his splendid films which he narrated. The LCM will hold their February meeting at the church on February 20 with a supper at 6:30 p.m.

THE WYCKOFF SHOPPER

Sometimes there are amusing sidelights to our Wyckoff Art Show, and this 26th year has been no exception. At least one of the entries almost missed getting here. As a matter of fact, it nearly ended its sparkling life in an ash can from which we can only hope a discerning junk man might have rescued it. Fortunately, it was salvaged by the artist's husband and now is mine—the gift of Lee Eldredge whom I consider both a special person and a special friend.</

WHAT A WONDERFUL winter wonderland for sports enthusiasts the Poconos are becoming!

Already, two major sporting enterprises are under way—and this may be only the beginning.

On a 1,000-acre raceway site, four miles south of Blakeslee along Route 115 at Long Pond Road, Racing, Inc., the corporation behind the Pocono Mountains International Raceway, has planned "the largest automobile speedway north of Daytona, Fla., and east of Indianapolis, Ind."

On Saturday, the Warhampston Motor Club and Pocono International Raceway will sponsor a sports car snow trials event there, and the event should be well worth seeing for any who enjoy this form of entertainment.

Construction on this huge racing plant is scheduled to start later this year, but in the meantime, the corporation is permitting use of the raceway site by various organized racing clubs. Corporation officials are allowing use of these facilities as "a gesture of good will to racing clubs and businesses."

An attitude of this type undeniably will pay off in the long run. At the same time, many residents—and visitors—of the area will be given opportunities to enjoy these trials, and perhaps familiarize themselves with this winter sports activity for those who are still uninitiated.

A half-dollar per person is the nominal cost for Saturday's event. The competitor entrance fee of $5 is likewise comparatively small. The gate and post entries open at 10 a. m., and the first car is scheduled to go at 11 a. m.

Parking areas for the event have been strategically located to allow spectators to watch from their own cars.

For the price of, say, two loaves of bread, you can hardly go wrong to take a jaunt out Blakeslee way Saturday to see spills and thrills galore.

On another sporting front, plans are well under way to establish one of the finest skiing areas in this part of the country.

These plans are further advanced than just the drawing board stage. Those behind this project foresee the Camelback Ski Area opening early next season, or the latter part of this year.

There is a question at the moment whether the name for these skiing slopes will be termed Camelback or Big Pocono, since the ski runs actually traverse the slopes of Big Pocono. But the name is not important. The project itself is, however.

And there will be ample room for everybody to enjoy this great outdoor sport—from the beginner to the most expert.

Moreover, this project is not just being planned for winter activity only. Included among the plans are facilities to be installed for snow-making, guaranteeing more than 100 days of the sport during the season.

Various Pocono resorts already have endorsed their enthusiastic support for this proposed ski area and have agreed to cooperate with the developers. And lending further support to the project more recently were several ski editors from metropolitan newspapers, including some from New York City.

The sports world, indeed, will be a live one for both spectator and participant around the Poconos in the very near future.

While winter may be here in all its splendorous, albeit, chilly, glamor, the baseball world always manages to creep into the news in one way or another, no matter what the season. And off-season activity does not belong strictly to the top professionals of the major leagues.

Here in this area, the Pocono Mountain Baseball League is set for its annual reorganization meeting next Monday in Shaffer's Inn, Route 209, East Stroudsburg, R.D. Following is the list of nominees for the five offices to be filled:

President—John Wernett, George Ockershausen, Carl Nauerman and Otto A. Mills. For vice-president—Otto A. Mills, Eugene Martin, Roy Fehr and George Ockershausen. Second vice-president—Harry Jansen and Richard DePue. Secretary—James Wertheimer and John Wernett. Frank Smith is the only nominee for assistant secretary.

Because of the possibility that perhaps two entries of last year may not re-apply for league membership, each team's manager and officials have been requested to "seek and invite baseball organizations to league team membership."

Anxious To Start

Roberts, Comeback Star, Looks Ahead

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Robin Roberts was named Thursday as the athlete who made the greatest comeback of 1962 and promptly responded with the same faith that carried him from a cast-off back to a starting and winning major league pitcher.

Looking ahead already to the 1963 season, the Baltimore Orioles' pitcher said:

"I'm anticipating pitching regularly and doing well. I'm quite anxious to get started."

Roberts collected 114 first place votes and a total of 506 points, based on a 3-2-1 tabulation, in the voting by 292 sportswriters and sportswriters throughout the nation in the annual Associated Press poll.

Roberts, sold by the Philadelphia Phillies to the New York Yankees after his worst season in 1961, then let go by the Yankees without pitching a game at the start of the 1962 season, was picked up by Baltimore May 21.

Second Best

The 36-year-old right-hander

who had won 234 games in 14 seasons with the Phillies, finished with a 10-9 record with Baltimore and a 2.78 earned run average—second best in the American League. This compared to a 1.10 record and a 5.85 earned run average with the Phillies the previous season.

"The big thing was the opportunity I got to pitch and an adjustment in style," explained Roberts. "I got involved in a little more changes of speed."

"I never had thrown an effective change of pace before. It worked this year for me quite well. Once I was able to throw it the other pitcher seemed to come around a little better, too."

Musial Named

Another veteran who had a big year after a mediocre season in 1961, Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals, was named first on 90 ballots and had 418 points to take second place in the poll.

The Oklahoma football team, which won its last eight games and a bid to the Orange Bowl, was voted third with 368 points and 42 first place selections.

Rounding out the top ten in this order were, San Francisco Giants, Southern California football team, Washington Redskins, Billy Pierce, Y. A. Tittle, Nebraska football team, and Del Crandall.

Blues Travel To Hawley Saturday

NEWFOUNDLAND—The Blues, Wayne County Amateur League entry, will travel to Hawley Saturday for a game at 8:30 p. m. with the Hawley squad.

On Jan. 26, they will host Waymart, and on Feb. 3, will play at Honesdale. The Feb. 16 game will be at Lake Ariel, and Feb. 23 at Pleasant Mount. On March 2, they host Lakewood, and March 9, host Hawley.

The Blues are two wins, three losses, for the season to date.

Grill Karras In Bet Probe

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Star tackle Alex Karras, glum and silent, and teammate Wayne Walker, relaxed and relieved, flew back to Detroit Thursday night after both were questioned by National Football League Commissioner Pete Rozelle at a secret rendezvous.

Karras, 250-pound All-Pro ace of the Detroit Lions, underwent two long grilling sessions with Rozelle, before the pair flew back to their homes. He has admitted betting on NFL games.

Walker had only a 10-minute talk with the commissioner, in the latest development of the pro football betting investigation.

Emerging Pale

Karras was obviously under orders not to talk about the sessions, but he emerged pale and apparently disturbed.

The big tackle had said his bets were limited to a "pack of cigarettes and a couple of cigars."

"They didn't say anything to me but I feel I am in the clear," said Walker, the Lions' linebacker and placement kicker. "And believe me, it's wonderful."

"A thing like this makes you stop and think. Thank goodness I've never done anything wrong. Still I came within a whisker of getting into a lot of trouble. I'll sure be more careful from now on."

After a break for lunch, Karras was summoned for another session.

"Talked For Alex"

"I spent part of the time there talking for Alex," said Walker. "I told them he just didn't know what he was doing when he consented to appear on that television show."

Walker was referring to an NBC television interview shown Wednesday night which had been taped Sunday. On that show Karras was asked if he ever had bet on football games. His reply was TWIN Boro Ladies League has four matches scheduled for tonight at Colonial Lanes starting at 6:45 p. m.

Gordon's Heating Oil vs. B & B Amusement on alleys 1 and 2; Johnnie's Inn vs. Curly's Gunshop on alleys 3 and 4; Koehler's Diner vs. Kitty's Tavern on alleys 5 and 6; and Electrical Local 367, IBEW vs. Pocono Aviation on alleys 7 and 8.

"I have bet on ball games."

To the question whether he ever bet on a game in which he was playing, Karras replied: "Yes, I have."

Except to acknowledge that "we met," Rozelle refused to discuss his meetings with the players.

"An announcement will be made when the entire investigation of rumors has been completed," read his terse statement.

Boros Birdies Leads In Crosby Golf

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP)—Husky Julius Boros, the 42-year-old former U.S. Open champion, birdied seven of the last 10 holes Thursday to shoot a 6-under-par 66 and capture the first round in Bing Crosby's $50,000 golf tournament.

"The putts just finally started dropping for me," commented the 210-pounder from Mid-Pines, N.C., who won the national title in 1952 but hasn't won a tournament the past two years.

2-Stroke Lead

In sunny, balmy weather, Boros took a 2-stroke lead over his nearest rivals—George Bayer, another burly hitter, a pair of slender pros, Paul Harney and Dave Hill, all with scores of 68.

Boros and Bayer played in the same foursome over the Monterey Peninsula Country Club course, least difficult of the three played in the Crosby. Harney and Hill toured the treacherous Cypress Point layout bordering the Pacific Ocean.

Co-favorites Arnold Palmer and Gary Player each played Cypress Point, carding 70 and 73, respectively.

Four teams tied for the lead in the pro-amateur division. Hill and entertainer Phil Harris carded a best-ball score of 63, as did Mike Souchak and his brother, Frank, Vernie Vossler and Bill Higgins of Lafayette, Calif., and Bruce Crampton and amateur Joe Fennelly of San Francisco.

Palmer At 70

At 69 in the pro division came Phil Rodgers and Gene Bone with Bob Duden, Wes Ellis, Souchak, Billy Maxwell, Bob Goetz and Palmer, all at 70.

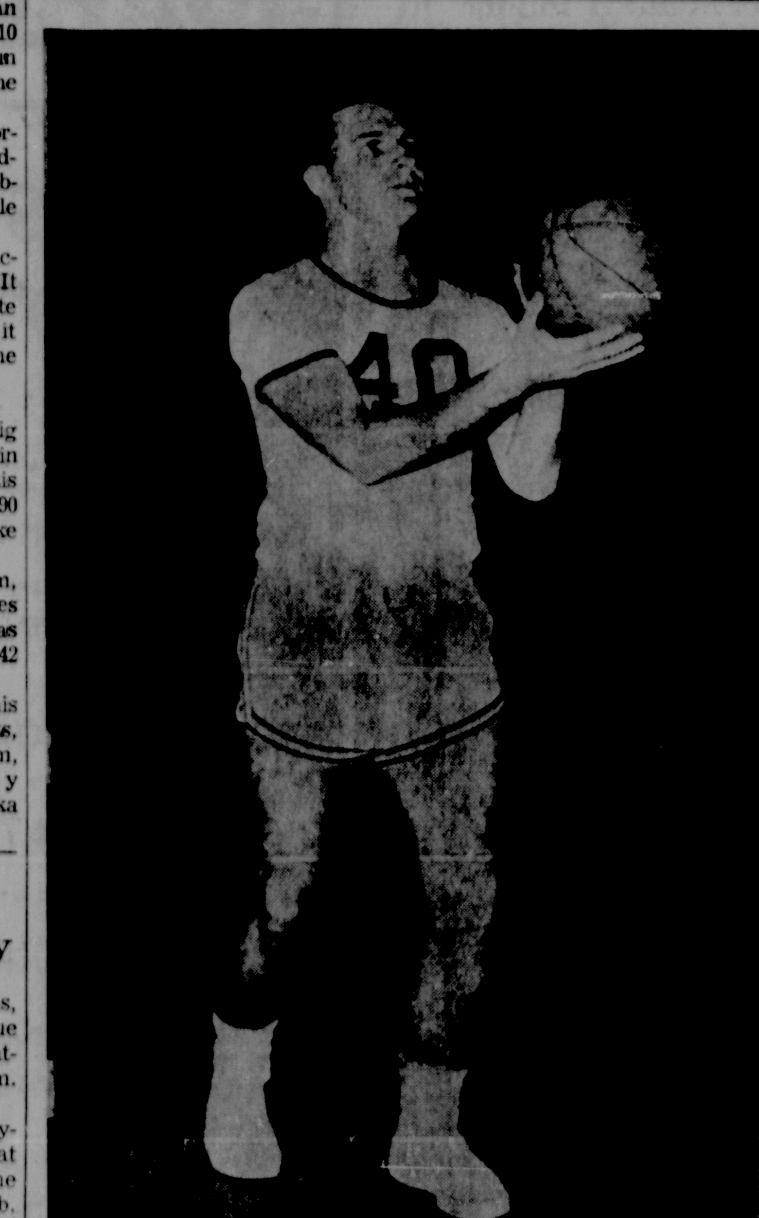

Also at 70 was Australian Bruce Crampton.

U. S. Open champion Jack Nicklaus remained in contention with a 71 at Cypress Point, but the man whom he succeeded, Gene Littler, soared to a shocking 83.

Defending champion Doug Ford experienced putting troubles and took a 75 at Pebble Beach.

BRITE STAR winner John Murphy is in typical pose here with ball in hand and eyes on basket, as usual. Murphy ripped the nets for 31 points in a losing cause against Millersville last Saturday, hitting on 15 field goals and one free throw. The East Stroudsburg State College player is well in front in team scoring honors.

BROWNS' TOP TRIO — The Cleveland Browns' new head coach, Blanton Collier, 56, is flanked by Arthur B. Modell, club president, left, and Harold Sauerbrei, new club general manager. Collier, backfield coach of the National Football League club under former coach Paul Brown, was named to succeed Brown. Brown, former head coach and general manager and still under contract, will get yet unspecified duties as a vice president. Sauerbrei will take over general manager duties.

'Get 'Em Back On Track'

Moratorium On Boycotts Seen In Athletic Dispute

NEW YORK (AP)—A moratorium on boycotts, suspensions or other disciplinary measures against athletes probably will be declared Friday when representatives of the warring AAU and NCAA begin arbitration talks with Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

"The athletes themselves should not be penalized during this period that we are trying to clear up this mess," one high-placed spokesman said Thursday. "I imagine one of the first moves of the general will be to get the boys back on the tracks."

JFK Concerned

At the direction of a concerned President Kennedy, MacArthur will meet with hand-picked representatives of the rival factions in an effort to end the long and bitter conflict for control of amateur sports which is jeopardizing the U.S. performance in the Olympic Games.

The first of the meetings is set at 10 a. m. (EST) in the hotel tower, suite of the retired 5-star general who has been hero of half a dozen wars.

"We don't anticipate a quick settlement," said Col. Don Hull, executive director of the AAU. "These talks could drag on for days."

If so, it seems certain that the nation's athletes, collegiate and unattached, will be free to operate without fear of retaliation either from the Amateur Athletic Union or its new rival, the U.S. Track and Field Federation, backed by the NCAA.

"As soon as the arbitration talks begin, we will lift our boycott of AAU-sanctioned meets," said George Shiebler, assistant director of the East College Athletic Conference.

It was the ECAC which recently imposed a blacklist, asking its 90-member colleges to shun the indoor meets conducted under the auspices of the AAU.

"We said at the time that as soon as arbitration of the dispute began we would lift the ban," Shiebler said. "We will send out notices immediately to that effect."

Berra To Coach -- And Play

NEW YORK (AP)—It's official. Yogi Berra will be a playing coach with the New York Yankees next season.

Yogi has known about his new assignment for a month. The story leaked out last week and Roy Hamey, the Yankees' general manager, announced it Thursday.

Yogi was present at the press conference and readily admitted he didn't know the exact nature of his new duties.

"Ralph hasn't told me yet but I'm ready to do anything he wants," said the squat little catcher-outfielder — pinch hitter.

"The only thing he told me for sure is that he still wants me to play. That's okay with me. I'll play as long as they think I can."

"Ralph" is Ralph Houk, the Yankees' manager, who was not present. Hamey cleared up the situation, however.

"Yogi will coach at first base when he isn't playing," said Hamey, "but I want to emphasize that he is still a player. I think he can play about 75 games next season. Houk plans to use him as a part-time catcher and pinch hitter."

Berra, who will be 38 next May, batted .224 in 86 games last season. He owns a lifetime .281 mark with 350 home runs, a record 305 of them as a catcher. He joined the Yankees in September of 1946.

Hamey said Yogi had signed for the same salary he drew last year but declined to say what it was. The guess was $45,000. "You're close enough," Hamey said.

Wally Moses, first base coach for the past two years, will serve as batting instructor at Yankee minor league farm clubs.

Bangor Still Rolling

Six Games On Tap For Area Schools

WHILE THE Slaters of Bangor continue to roll along on their merry way to one of their finest basketball seasons in recent history, four other hoop squads in the Pocono Mountain-Slate Belt area carry hopes tonight of snapping losing streaks. A six-game slate is on tap.

Coach Bill Pensyl's Slaters will be gunning for their seventh straight win of the campaign when they travel to Nazareth to take on the Blue Eagles in a Lehigh-Northampton League tilt.

Bangor has not lost since Dec. 18 when an invading corps of Stroud Union Mountaineers took the measure of the Slaters. But since then, the Slaters have knocked over six straight opponents and are favored to make it No. 7 this evening.

Meanwhile, hoping to snap losing streaks tonight are East Stroudsburg, Pen Argyl, Pleasant Valley and Pius X. And the Cardinals of Pocono Mountain, who dropped their first contest in seven meetings last Tuesday to a strong Notre Dame combine, figure to get back on the winning side of the ledger when they meet winless Pius X on the Cardinal court.

Like the Bears of Pleasant Valley, the Royals of Pius X are still looking for that first victory of the season. But it would take major upsets in both cases for either team to lay claim to their first win tonight.

Coach Harry Wertheimer's Pocono Mountain Cards will be anxious to resume their previous habit of winning and with the presence of the brothers Ryan, Norbert and John, they figure to do just that against an outmanned Pius X club of Coach John Thomas. The Royals have dropped all seven of their previous battles, and it appears No. 8 is on the way against the Cards.

Same Predicament

Pleasant Valley's Bears are in much the same predicament this evening when they play host to Jim Thorpe, one of the stronger clubs on the Bear schedule this year. Coach Bill Frear's lads are in the throes of a dismal 0-8 season, and Jim Thorpe is a very likely candidate to keep that unhappy string unbroken.

Coach Dale Baker's East Stroudsburg Cavaliers also will be out to snap a four-game losing streak when they travel to Pen Argyl where the Green Knights have similar hopes of snapping a seven-game losing skid.

East Stroudsburg's last triumph came against Stroud Union Dec. 22 while the Knights haven't won a game since Dec. 14 when they toppled Palisades. But somebody's winless string must be broken in this Lehigh-Northampton League clash and Janey Jack Van Horn of the Cavaliers figures to be the difference in this battle. Pen Argyl's lack of height has been their major problem.

In a Lehigh Valley League battle, Coach Bob Wert's Mountaineers entertain a highly-regarded Emmaus club which has plenty of height in a pair of 6-4 agents in the persons of Carl Naugle and Malcolm Brown along with Dale Stortz at 6-2. Stroudsburg dropped its last contest in Palmerston, one of the lesser lights in the Lehigh Valley this season.

In another area contest, the Stags of Southern Wayne will be out to rectify an unhappy 2-5 campaign when they entertain Lake Ariel. Southern Wayne also hopes to halt a mild two-game losing skid to Honesdale and North Pocono in their most recent outings. Their last triumph came Jan. 4 against Damascus.

Commercial 'C' Bowls Tonight

THREE matches are scheduled in the Commercial "C" Bowling League tonight.

Lanterman's Funeral Home vs. Lucky Dot Hotel on alleys 1 and 2; Tru-Matic Machine & Tools vs. Regina Hotel on alleys 3 and 4; and Kream-ee Ice Cream vs. Counterman's Drug Store on alleys 5 and 6.

Competition On Price-Value

STRONDSBURG (AP) — Leslie B. Worthington, president of U.S. Steel Corp., told the Society of Automotive Engineers yesterday that "we have no choice but to compete on a price-value basis both here and abroad, if we are to be successful in keeping America the greatest industrial nation on earth."

"In new nations and old," Worthington said in a keynote banquet speech, "people are impatient to have better living conditions, better educational opportunities, better sanitary and medical facilities, better jobs and wages, better homes in which to live."

"In the not too distant future we shall be competing at home as well as abroad with a greater number of foreign countries and companies that will rival us in efficiency, in imagination, in enthusiasm, in technology — and, quite likely will surpass us in areas of lower cost . . ."

"We have been saying for a century and a half that the competitive market is what we like and what we want. Well, this is it, and the only question that remains is—are we going to prove ourselves worthy of the challenge, masters of the competitive system we have championed for so long."

$221,814 In Food Stamps Given

HARRISBURG (AP) — Public Welfare Secretary Arlin M. Adams reported yesterday that $221,814 worth of food stamps were distributed to 3,497 low-income families in Luzerne County in December.

Adams said the families paid $146,965 for the stamps under the federal program administered by the state.

The 3,497 families represented 82 per cent of the eligible households in the county, the secretary continued. Approximately 70 per cent participated in November.

The families also represented 10,885 persons—6,371 in 1,943 families on public assistance and 4,514 in 1,364 not on public assistance.

Not Dollar Averaging

By William A. Doyle

Q. At four different times over the past 15 months I bought shares of a well-known stock — 10 shares at $25 a share, 10 shares at $20, 0 shares at $14 and 25 shares at $12. According to my way of figuring, this makes my average cost $16 a share. Is this dollar-averaging?

A. No. Dollar-averaging is the more simple process of investing the same amount of money in the same stock at fixed intervals — such as once a month, once a year, or any other interval you have decided upon.

When you dollar-average the fixed amount of money you invest each time buys you fewer shares when the price of the stock is high and more shares when the price of the stock is low. This is a time-tested and easy way to invest.

When you dollar-average you get a better — than — average price on all your shares. And, assuming that the market price of the stock in which you invest doesn't head downhill forever, you come out ahead.

Even in the case of a stock whose price has dropped for a long time, dollar-averaging provides a method through which only a relatively small recovery in the price usually makes you even.

You invested different amounts of money — $250, $200, $120 and $300 — for a total of $1,170. That's not dollar-averaging, even though you don't say whether your investments were at fixed intervals.

You now own 75 shares. Divide your total cost, $1,170, by 75 and your average cost comes to $15.60 a share.

However, the figures you provide do not give your commission costs. Those costs should be included in your total cost and average cost per share.

Based on normal stock exchange commission rates, the total commission costs on all four purchases come to $28.20. That would bring your total cost to $1,198.20.

Divide that figure by 75 and your average cost works out to just about $15.98 a share. If the market price of the stock rises above that level, you will be ahead. Actually, you would have to sell all 75 shares at a price no lower than $16.25 a share to realize any profit — after paying selling commissions, transfer taxes and the Securities & Exchange Commission fee.

Q. I bought some Sperry Rand common stock more than a year ago. That stock's market price fell from above $25 to $10.50 a share when the stock market went way down. And it didn't recover very much during the most recent recovery in stock prices. This company has lots of government contracts and a large business machine output.

Sperry Rand common stock is often listed among the most actively traded on the New York Stock Exchange. It supply and demand cause a stock to advance in price, how do you account for the fact that this one stays low in price?

A. Your question isn't complete. It's the degree of supply (selling) causes a stock to advance or decline in price.

Yes, Sperry Rand common is usually an actively traded stock. But since the spring of 1961 (when it traded as high as $5 a share) there has been much more selling sentiment than buying sentiment about this stock.

Look at falls. The company's earnings have slipped in the past few years. And it's expected that profits won't improve in the immediate future. No cash dividend has been paid on the common stock since 1960. Even though things haven't worked out well recently, Sperry Rand is a solid company and its common stock is rated as promising for investors who have long patience.

THE 22nd annual venison dinner of the East Stroudsburg Methodist Men's Fellowship will be held Monday night, Jan. 21 at 6:30 p.m. in the church's dining room.

For many years the Venison Dinner has had a two-fold purpose. First, the conservation of wild life. Second, Christian Fellowship for men of the community. For years whatever has been received above the actual cost of the dinner has been donated to the Methodist Little League Baseball team.

A program has been planned this year under the direction of Henry Evans, president of the Men's Fellowship. John Doebeling, local Game Protector, will show a new movie in Kodachrome. It is entitled "Summer Sunrise." It shows the action of the birds at sunrise.

Following the movie Doebeling will lead in a forum discussion of local wild life status.

The dinner will be prepared by men of the church with "Bucky" Jones as head chef. A committee consisting of William Lee and Gene Marsh are in charge of the door prizes.

This event for men has always attracted a large number of local sportsmen.

Methodists Session Sunday

THE concluding session of The East Stroudsburg Methodist School of Missions, a yearly endeavor on the part of the Commission on Missions to acquaint the congregation with the scope and vitality of the church's missionary effort, will be held Sunday night, Jan. 20 at 7:30 in the All-Purpose Room of the Sunday School building.

Dr. Robert F. DeLano, vice president of The American Leprosy Mission, Inc., with national headquarters in New York City, will be the guest speaker.

Dr. DeLano has a wide wide acquaintance with the progress being made in treatment of leprosy sufferers both in America and around the world. He will illustrate his address with Kodachrome slides.

In a quotation in a letter recently received by Rev. Eaton from Dr. DeLano he says: "You are probably aware of the fact, that for many years, American Leprosy Missions has cooperated with the Methodist Church in overseas work for leprosy sufferers. Not a long time ago, I had the opportunity of meeting Robert Neill who has been appointed to go and supervise the leprosy work at Ganta in Liberia where we work in conjunction with the Methodist Church. What a treat it was for me to get to know him."
